

hacking away at dear little Adolf. Osgar admits that he mortally loves Adolf, and this affection is mutually resented.

Osgar has few faults, it seems, beyond a mercurial temperament that is continually beating out its brains against the cold stone wall of Adolf's inflexible density. Therefore no one can feel very sorry for Osgar if he breaks his blamed neck in the attempt. You can follow his frenzied antics daily in the Comic Page.

CRAWL AFTER EVERY MEAL—AND BE HEALTHY

Crawling—plain, everyday crawling is the secret of perennial youth and beauty. The discovery has just been made by a Parisian food specialist who claims that the perfect symmetry of physical outline and the rose blush of the complexion begin with perfect health. And perfect health comes by crawling on all fours after each meal.

Society has taken up the novel idea and "On-All-Fours Clubs" are being organized as fast as the new "get beautiful formula spreads.

To crawl gracefully one must have a crawling costume. Well—here it is.

French dressmakers, quick to learn the needs of the occasion, have fashioned a wonderfully becoming costume for patrons of the "All Fours" art.

The blouse waist is made of white satin and trimmed with simple bands of black satin. The bloomers of black satin are fastened at the waist with an ordinary belt and at the knees with rubber bands.

Soda Peels Potatoes

Many housewives do not know that it will be much easier to scrape potatoes if they are soaked for a while in water in which a little soda has been dissolved. Add a little milk to the water in which they are boiled and it will improve the flavor.
